Beginning in the 19th century until 1974, La Villette operated as a slaughterhouse. Then 'The Parc de la Villette' public institution was created. Today there are two museums dedicated to music- 'La Cité de la musique' and 'La Philharmonie de Paris', and the National conservatory of Music and Danse, as well as a museum specializing in science, 'La Cité des sciences et de l'industrie'. These building are now surrounded by a park.

The «Parc des buttes Chaumont» is a public park. It was build in 1867. It was made to duplicate a mountain landscape.

Liberté, égalité, fraternité

Our schools have been working for several years on the theme of secularism and the respect of the famous French motto : liberty, equality, fraternity. Our pupils made several works about this theme.

The tree of secularism : every pupil and teacher of school A laid their hand covered with paint on a tree. Different sizes and colors as a symbol of our unity.

The wave : every pupil painted a pebble and then put it in the playground to create a colorful wave

Every december 9th, it's the National day of Secularism (Laïcité). This year, pupils of school B decided to compose a photography with the word Laïcité.
